FIVE MAJOR ISSUES TO COME BEFORE NEXT LEGISLATURE WILL BRING STORM

Financial Reorganization, Labor Laws, Wet Issues, Forestry and Highways On the List

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 9.—Five major issues due to come before the next session of the state legislature will meet with strong opposition from various points and it is believed will bring about one of the stormiest sessions ever witnessed at the capital.

All five of these issues have been before the public, many of them long enough to be given definite form and shape by various organizations and interests. These five are: Financial reorganization. Labor legislation. Wet and dry issues. Forestry development. Highway construction. The combined pronounced reform program of Mr. Pinchot and the reorganization scheme outlined by Governor Sproul's committee are certain to be bones of contention.

CASKET COMPANY OFFICIALS UNDER TWO INDICTMENTS

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 9.—Charged with conspiracy and false pretense, nine men who said they represented the A. C. Casket Company have been indicted in the Blair county court. Six are also charged with fraudulent conversion.

The news printed above will be of considerable interest in Clearfield because of the fact that large blocks of that stock were sold in this city about fifteen months ago. There was quite a controversy at the time, and a number of citizens went to Altoona to make a personal investigation.

Intelligence Accused Of Burning High Schools In The State Of New Jersey

One of the high schools in the state of New Jersey was burned last night. The loss was $100,000 insurance carried on the building.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is suspected that it was the work of incendiaries as the Blair Academy at Blairtown yesterday burned under similar circumstances.

Two Badly Burned When From Lighted Lantern Gasoline Fumes Ignite

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 9.—While August Purser of Alexandria was filling his automobile tank with gasoline the flames became ignited from a lighted lantern he was holding in his hand and an explosion followed which burned two passengers in his car. Purser escaped injury but one of the girls passengers in the car was severely burned.

JUDGE STONE RESIGNS

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 9.—Judge Stephens Stone of Common Pleas Court in the Fifth Judicial District announced his resignation today to take effect Monday, December 12, 1932. He gave as his reason for resigning the post the necessity of earning more money and desire to return to private practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Danghart of Jersey Shore took dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fikes on Second street last evening.

Novel Campaigner May Take Crow's Place In Senate At Harrisburg

Fayette City, Pa., Dec. 9. (U. P.)—An original campaigner, Guy W. Brown, recently elected to the state Senate from the thirty-second district, is looked upon as a successor to the late William E. Crow in the state body.

Brown entered the race in opposition to the regular Republican organization and staged one of the most unusual campaigns in the history of Fayette county.

Brown attributes his victory at the primary and in the recent election in face of strong opposition to the use of a flivver that carried him to the home of every voter in the district. No road was too rough and no hill too steep for him to tackle.

The new state Senator was a close friend of Crow and when the latter was named by Governor Sproul to the United States Senate, Brown got the "bee" which finally resulted in his entering the political arena.

He was born on a farm near Fayette City, went to Wooster College and was for a time ticket agent at Charleroi, later becoming clerk in the Fayette City Bank, of which he is now vice-president.

Sleuths Disguised As Waiters And Cooks Are Guarding Four Premiers

London, Dec. 9.—Hundreds of detectives from Scotland Yard, disguised as waiters and cooks, guarded Premier Poincare of France and Premier Mussolini of Italy at Claridge's hotel today as the conference of allied premiers opened. French secret service men were also on the job hovering around Premier Poincare while Mussolini had brought with him a Fascist bodyguard. A meeting of the heads of governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium described by the American ambassador as important was started by Premier Poincare when he invited Mussolini to a twenty minute private chat. Afterwards Bonar Law saw Poincare.

Clemenceau Will Enjoy Cresson's Balm Air For A Night's Sleep

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—Georges Clemenceau is now on the last lap of his journey prior to returning to the councils of Europe.

Clemenceau will speak here today under the auspices of the Philadelphia Forum. Clemenceau will arrive at Cresson about midnight tonight and they, high in the Allegheny mountains, he will rest tonight before leaving Sunday for Chicago to address a farmers' convention Monday.

THREE GREAT SUPER POWER SYSTEMS ARE UNDER WAY IN STATE

Great Schemes Called Visionary Only A Few Years Ago Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Harrisburg, Nov. 29.—This is a record-breaking era in the electrical history of the Keystone state. First steps have been taken in three separate and distinct sections of the Commonwealth for plants that will eventually become units in the huge super power electric system. For years government engineers have declared and reported such a system must be developed in Pennsylvania and other states in the Atlantic seaboard to take care of increasing demands from manufacturing plants for plenty of lowest current.

Engineers here in the Capitol city who are acquainted with the public utilities of Pennsylvania declare this fall has set a new high record for electrical development of this class. Year after year they say the government surveyed and reported that power plants in Pennsylvania must eventually become one great system with a great reserve of low-cost electric current which could be distributed to every section of the state. And year after year these same reports were regarded as visionary and far in the future. Yet with the closing of the year three great projects, one at York Haven on the Susquehanna river south of Harrisburg, one at Williamsport and along the West Branch and the third along the Clarion river have become realities.

The Clarion river project is in a sense the newest and the oldest of them all. The Clarion River Power company was formed in 1912 through

SIX KILLED IN POWDER MILL EXPLOSION NEAR PITTSBURGH; TWENTY-THREE INJURED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 9.—An explosion in the plant of the Black Diamond Powder Company at Sexton, near here, cost six lives and injured twenty-three men, according to reports reaching here. The cause of the blast is unknown and the extent of the damage cannot be learned as the only telephone line leading to the town went through the mill and all communication cut off. The dead as far as known, are Frank Garrah, Philip Rice, Sebastian Fabian, Raymond Schlow and two unidentified men. A brother of Fabian is said to be missing.

40 TYPHOID CASES IN MORRIS TOWNSHIP EPIDEMIC THIS FAR

Altogether there are forty cases of typhoid fever in Morris township, and three more suspects with symptoms indicating they may be stricken with the malady.

There have been no deaths so far, but some of the patients are very ill. It was thought this morning another would be admitted to the Cottage State hospital, where they have been caring for as many of the cases from the stricken district as they have room for, in addition to the accident victims. The hospital is a very busy place just now.

Virtually all the cases developed at Oak Grove and Cunard Slope, indicating the source of the trouble was in that locality. One of the patients lives in the village of Morris Dale, but he worked in the district where the other patients worked and lived.

Representatives of the State Department of Health are supervising the work of looking after the stricken district and in directing the campaign for the prevention of the spread of the malady.

"What Is Wrong With The Church?" Topic Of Able Speaker Thursday

It is acknowledged by both ministers and lay members of our churches that there is something fundamentally wrong with the churches today. They don't appeal. They don't sway the people as they should and used to do. Why is it? We don't know. But we have a man coming here next Thursday evening that we believe can tell you something that will enlighten and interest you. Dr. A. F. McGarrah, of New York, is one of the foremost men in the Presbyterian church, a man the equal of many of the high priced Chautauqua lecturers in his ability to interest and please with a message that is well worth dollars to hear but given absolutely free of cost with refreshments thrown in. No admission charge, no collection and the assured promise of a few hours entertainment. Come and hear him. The officers of the Presbyterian church of Clearfield are putting on a free lecture and social hour at the church on Thursday evening, Dec. 14th, 1932 at 7:30 o'clock.

LOCK HAVEN NORMAL SCHOOL BE LOST TO TOWN

Small Attendance at S. N. S. and Lock Co-operation, Local Cause of Difficulty

Lock Haven is considerably surprised over the possibility of losing the State Normal School here. The following article from the Lock Haven Express states reasons advanced for the possible removal and other interesting facts to the controversy.

The regular December meeting of the Board of Education was held at the High School last night. An earnest discussion of the Normal school teacher-training was present and showed an earnest desire to have an agreement at between the local Board of Education and the State Normal authorities.

The possibility of the removal of the State Normal school from Lock Haven was introduced in the discussion by Principal Owen, and was supported by E. F. McGarrah, president of the Business Men's Association and by H. W. Shaffer. Reference to this effect have been in circulation here for some time past and

RESORTS TO TRY TO OUTFIT FARM FOR THE HOLIDAYS

The general store of the Pennsylvania Mercantile Company at Run was broken into Thursday by an unknown person and a number of articles stolen, enough to make considerable of a load, the store management stated this morning.

The robber, or robbers, who may have been more than one, entered through a window in front part of the building and parted by way of the back door. The stealing was done by one close by, a car must have been used to haul away the loot. The articles taken were too bulky for one or two persons to carry a considerable distance. The raining the night obliterated any tracks made by a car if any were made. The indications are the person a man with a family. His motherly selection for various members of the family. He selected No. 9 and a dozen flannel shirts also. Sweaters and knitted coats were taken. Even the baby of four or five years was not neglected. For wife or grown daughters silk stockings were selected. Old Santa himself could not have done better making the selection. Blankets were also taken, as well as dyed wool work shirts, children's children's underwear, knives, flashlights, batteries, watches and children's stockings.

Oregon To Compel All Children To Attend State Public Schools

NEW LAW CERTAIN TO HAVE COURT TEST

By FRANK CLARVOE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chapter I

Portland, Ore., Dec. 8 (United Press).—At the general election November 7, the voters of Oregon approved by 14,000 majority the Compulsory education. It specifies that parents, guardians and all those having charge of children between the ages of eight and sixteen years to send such children to the PUBLIC GRADED SCHOOLS OF THE STATE.

The bill was proposed by legislative petition, and amends section 5259 of the Oregon law relating to compulsory education. It specifies that every child "under the age of sixteen years and of the age of eight years or over at the commencement of a term of public school of the district in which said child resides" shall attend public school and that any parent, guardian, or person having the control, charge or custody of a child who fails to so educate a child be guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $100, or be sentenced to imprisonment in the county jail not less than two nor more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Each day's failure to comply with the law is to be considered a separate offense. No parent or other child custodian can avoid the law by sending the child out of the state to a private or public school in another state for such is a violation of the law. The only way to avoid the law is for the family to transfer its place of residence to another state for the entire year or during the school year. Even this latter construction may be open to question when the law becomes effective on and after September 1, 1933.

There are exceptions under the law Children physically unable to attend school may be educated in other ways. Children regardless of age, who have completed the eighth grade to the satisfaction of the state board of education, are excused. Children who live at inconvenient or unsafe distances from the nearest school, unless transportation is provided by the school district, do not come under the law, and those children taught by parent or private tutor during the school year, such courses of study as the state requires and whose progress is known and approved by the school authorities, are held to comply with the law without attendance at public school. The law does not apply to high schools.

To Test The Law
Since the law will not become effective until after four years, not a great deal is being said or done with regard to actually testing its constitutionality. That such test will be made is certain. There is a small unorganized movement now on foot looking toward that expedition.

Oregon long ago passed a compulsory educational measure which requires all children to be educated. This law was tested in the courts and held valid. Many states have the general compulsory education law but Oregon now is the only one to have a law requiring that such necessary education be obtained in the public schools or under the supervision of the state or district boards of education.

The fight on the law may go high in the courts of the nation, and whether the amendment will stand test or not remains to be seen. There is a possibility, of course, that should a serious fight be aroused by the bill, the injunction may be sought as a weapon to prevent its becoming legally effective pending the outcome of litigation. But this is only a possibility and at best is but speculation. The question has been asked: "How will the law be put into effect?" The answer to that is: "Like any other law that becomes a law. It goes in to effect and that's all there is to it. Legal machinery has a way of moving and the legislative, executive, judiciary and enforcement parts of the government have a way of working which makes any law as effective as human means can make it while combatting human opposition."

An Initiated Measure.
As this bill was an initiative petition, born of the people, passed by them, and exhibited to them as a duly recorded statute, it seems likely that the people who passed it will see that it is enforced, unless there is a change of mind in the next four years and the referendum is invoked to undo what has been done.

The fact that the bill is so worded that it will not go into effect until four years hence is but an indication that two things are expected. One is a fight against the bill in the courts, the other is that time is needed for private and church educational institutions to adjust themselves to the new condition of things. This change will be gradual, as will the gathering by the law's opponents of strength to war against the law in legal fields. Both these conditions having been provided for their development should be gradual and painless, and it seems reasonable to suppose that three or four years following the passage of the law which evoked such bitter campaigning, both proponents and opponents should be better able to view the matter in its broader aspects. (End Chapter I.)

Goumaris, former premier; Stratigos, minister of the interior; Theotokis, former minister of war and Protopapadakis, former premier. General Stratigos escaped death and received life imprisonment.

Wash Kidneys If They Hurt

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back pains you or Bladder bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In the pocket of an old ragged coat belonging to one of the insane patients of the Chicago poor house there was found after the patient's death, a will.

The man had been a lawyer, and the will was written in a firm, clear hand on a few scraps of paper.

So unusual was it that it was sent to a lawyer; and he read it before the Chicago Bar Association, and a resolution was passed ordering it probated. And now it is in the records of Cook county, Illinois.

The will reads as follows:

I, Charles Lounsberry, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order, as justly as may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interest which I know in law and recognized in sheep bound volumes as my property, being considerable and of no account, I make no disposition of in this, my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

Item. I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children all good words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously, as the needs of their children shall require.

Item. I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of childhood, all and every flower of the fields and blossoms of the woods with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float over the giant trees.

And I leave to the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

Item. I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow clad hills where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterfies thereon; the woods with their appurtenances; the squirrels and the birds and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance or without any incumbrance or care.

Item. To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of music, and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the last-ness and beauty of their love.

Item. To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sport of rivalry and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave to them the power to make lasting friendship and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

Item. And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave memory, and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

Item. To our loved ones with snowy crown I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep.

Tomorrow all over this land there will be gatherings of men in churches, chapels and Sunday School rooms. Likewise there will be gatherings of voting women.

Much depends, in our opinion, on just what these gatherings do at those meetings tomorrow. Are they simply going to argue about some obscure point of scripture for amusement and the sake of argument, or listen to an age-old story from the teacher with a sort of tolerable expression?

Would it not be timely to at least have some comment on the remarks of our President about prohibition and prohibition enforcement? Seems to us it would be fine to adopt resolutions of commendation and send them to Washington or, better yet, send a wire.

The President should know that the country is back of him to the limit. A wonderful opportunity is now presented

An interesting sidelight into the views of Mr. Harding on what constitutes "normalcy" is to be had in close consideration of his remarks anent the recent coal and rail strikes. No one will deny the truth of his statement that the two strikes "had no excuse for their beginning, and less justification for their delayed settlement."

Contrary to the much desired statement that labor was responsible for the hold-up of industry and business, wanted by certain business interests and certain radical elements in labor unions, the President simply gave the views of the average citizen when he placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of both in these words, "labor was insistent on holding to the war heights (of wages) and heedless forces of reaction sought the pre-war levels."

Both wanted to be "all hog or none."

If a newspaper did, or even attempted to do, a small percentage of the things that people expect it to do, it would have to be piloted by an all wise staff.

Plainly stated, the business of the newspaper is to gather, package and label the news of the day.

Only a few short years ago that was not the business of the newspaper. Then they were political organs and mouthpieces, some honestly and conscientiously so, others merely selling machines wound up by politicians and gainseekers.

Today the successful newspaper is the one printing the most interesting news of the day in the most interesting and commanding fashion.

Probably the greatest expense and annoyance the small daily newspaper has today is the almost daily request made upon it for support of local drives, campaigns and movements of every description. The preparation of this material and the setting of it in type is costly, yet no charge can be made for this work, because no reputable modern newspaper will admit anything to the news columns for a cash consideration, even though this cash consideration might be only to recompense the newspaper for the actual labor performed.

It has always been a principle with The Progress that advertising must be recognized as such by the reader and "news" must be free from distrust. Propaganda in the interest of local or national campaigns is easily recognizable by the reader and propaganda of any other nature is admitted only when it clearly sets forth some interesting phase of a controversy or new problem.

Getting back to the original statement that a newspaper is known by the news it gathers we can easily see that the space taken up and the time used on propaganda and publicity for various movements could be used to advantage by the newspaper. Oftentimes the news value of a paper is destroyed by these encroachments on front page space.

We are always glad to lend a hand and assist in every one of these drives but must object to being "driven." Please give us time to print a newspaper once a day.

PERSONAL SERVICE

The old time idea of a bank as a chilly place for all but the wealthy, is a thing of the past.

The modern bank is a place where the business of the modest depositor is welcomed; where the officers are easily accessible at all times.

The County National is a modern bank. The officers are always glad to meet the people and to give personal attention to their business.

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 10
THE STORY OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself—Lev. 19:18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Showing Kindness to a Stranger.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the Good Samaritan.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Who is My Neighbor?

1. How to Inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-29).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29).

"Lawyer" here means one versed in religious law—the Scriptures. This does not mean lawyer in our modern sense of that term. It would more nearly correspond to a theological professor. The lawyer's object was to trap Jesus—to induce Him to take such a stand as would weaken His influence as a teacher. He expected Jesus to set forth some new ceremonies which would conflict with or disprove the law.

2. Jesus' Question (v. 29). Though Jesus knew the motive of the lawyer He did not evade his question. He sent him to the law—the field which was familiar to him. He thus was robbed of his own weapon.

3. The Lawyer's Reply (v. 27). He made an intelligent answer declaring that the entire content of the law was embraced in love to God and man. This expresses the whole of human duty.

4. Jesus' Reply (v. 28). This straightforward answer went to the heart of the lawyer. Perfect love to God and man is truly the way of life. No man has yet had or can have such love. His sinful condition precludes its possibility. Man's failure to measure up to this requirement is his condemnation. The lawyer keenly felt this thrust. He was defeated on his own grounds and convicted of guilt.

11. Who is My Neighbor (vv. 29-37).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29). This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer. Christ's answer had reached his conscience and now he seeks to escape the difficulty by asking a captious question. Lawyer-like he sought to get off by raising a question as to the meaning of words.

2. Jesus' Answer (vv. 30-37). Christ's reply more than answered the lawyer's question. In the parable of the Good Samaritan He makes clear who is a neighbor and also what it means to be a neighbor or what loving a neighbor means. Christ's answer had a double meaning. He not only made clear who is my neighbor, but made it clear that the lawyer was not playing the neighbor. He thus was convicted of not having been a neighbor.

(1) Who is my neighbor? This doctrine and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers is the man who needs a neighbor. My neighbor, therefore, is the one who needs my help, whether he lives next door or on the outside of the world. Those who have the Spirit of Christ can see their neighbors on every hand.

(2) What being a neighbor means. Our supreme concern should not be "Who is my neighbor?" but "Whose neighbor am I?" To be a neighbor is (a) to see those to whom we need help (v. 33). Love is keen to discern need. We should be on the lookout for those in need of our help.

(b) Have compassion on the needy (v. 33). Christ's compassion was aroused as He came into contact with those who were suffering and in need. All those who have His nature will be likewise moved. (c) Give to those in need (v. 34). Many are willing to give money to help the poor and needy, but are unwilling to personally minister to them. Many times the personal touch is more important than the material aid. We should give ourselves as well as our money. (d) Bind up wounds (v. 34). (e) Set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 34). This is proof that love is genuine. Christians will deny themselves in order to have something to give to those who have need. This kind of sympathy is greatly needed today. (f) Bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34). Genuine love does not leave its service incomplete. Much Christian service is spasmodic, helps and then leaves a man to take care of himself. (g) Give money (v. 35). It costs a good deal to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son. It cost Christ His life. May we go and do likewise!

Patriotic Order Sons of America 75 Years Old, Sunday, Dec. 10th.

Camps All Over the State Will Attend Church
Services Sunday and Celebrate In
Their Camp Rooms

By CHARLES BRUMM HELMS

The Patriotic Order Sons of America is seventy-five years old, as the order was organized December 10, 1847 on Tenth street below Ridge avenue, Philadelphia by Dr. Reynold Coates of Philadelphia, a member of the "United Sons of America," who was elected to carry the idea of the Order into effect, and consummate the formation of the Auxiliary branch. Dr. Coates immediately set to work to lay the foundation for what was afterward named the "Junior Order Sons of America." His first work was to formulate a ritual for the use of the Order, draft a code of laws for its government and prepare a declaration of principles. This having been accomplished, he issued a call for a meeting, to be held December 10, 1847, for the formation of the first Camp of the new Order. The minutes show that twenty-three men between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years attended this meeting, all of whom signed the roll, and thus was constituted the first Camp of the "Junior Sons of America." At this same meeting the rules, regulations, etc., formulated by Dr. Coates, were adopted.

Colonel E. Z. C. Judson, a literary genius of national reputation, writing under the nom-de-plume of "Ned Bontline," was among the zealous co-workers with Dr. Coates in this work, both Dr. Coates as well as Colonel Judson being beyond the age limit to permit them to join the Auxiliary, could therefore not become members of the same, but later, when the name of the Order was changed to the "Patriotic Order Sons of America," both immediately became members. Later Colonel Judson wrote the three degree rituals of the Order, known as the red, white and blue degrees. Dr. Coates died in Camden, New Jersey, April 27, 1886, at the advanced age of 84 years, having given the best service of his long life to patriotic work. Colonel Judson died at Stamford, New York, in his beautiful home called "Eagle's Nest," at the age of 68 years.

Immediately after the lighting of the first Campfire of the Order, December 10, 1847, plans were formulated to extend the Order into other sections of Pennsylvania, as well as in other states. On June 2, 1848 Camp No. 2 was instituted at Pittsburgh, Pa., and from this time forward the Order had a steady growth until, at the breaking out of the Civil War, it was firmly established in twenty states and territories.

A convention of the subordinate camps in Pennsylvania was held at Pottsville, August, 1890, at which sixty-seven camps were represented. Considerable business of great importance to the order was transacted at this meeting. When the convention adjourned it was to meet at Norristown, Pa., in August, 1891. However, before that time arrived the electric wires flashed the startling news across the country that on April 12, 1861, Fort Sumter had been fired upon.

President Lincoln immediately issued a call for 75,000 volunteers to wipe out the insult to the flag. It is a matter of undisputed history that the first five companies of volunteers to respond to the call were five companies from Pennsylvania; two from Pottsville, one from Reading, one from Lewistown.

History records it, and the records confirm it, that these five companies were in the main comprised of members of the "Junior Order Patriotic Sons of America."

Among the many accomplishments of the Order there is none that stands out more prominently than the part

it took in the preservation of Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge.

Among other achievements of the order was the presentation and adoption of the Flag Bill at Harrisburg making it a crime to mar or destroy the American flag, the placing of the flag on the public schools of the state, the adoption of the Penn Institution Bill, which has saved the commonwealth close to a million dollars annually, the work for immigration restriction at Washington, where the order has been represented by James H. Patten, Esq., for years and years and its everlasting four square stand for the public schools. During the late war, the order brought its boys to Scranton a few days after war was declared and 2,900 of the flow of the Order were accepted for enlistment, altogether 27,000 of the Sons from Pennsylvania were in the World War and six hundred made the supreme sacrifice.

The National President Gabriel H. Moyer has requested every camp in the Order in the United States to attend divine services December 10th and to also celebrate this great event in the progress of the order in proper style in the camp room. This will be done by the fifteen hundred lodges or camps (as they are called) representing two hundred and fifty thousand members in the United States.

The actual general celebration of the Diamond Jubilee will be held in the City of Philadelphia from August 26th to September 1st, 1923, when the National Camp, the Pennsylvania State Camp, the Commandery General of the P. O. S. of A. will meet during the week, as well as the Pennsylvania State Camp of the Patriotic Order of Americans (the ladies branch of the order) and the Rough Riders, the social degree. The New Jersey State Camp of the P. O. S. of A. will meet in Camden at the same time.

Saturday, September 1, is reserved for the largest street pageant ever staged in the order's history in Philadelphia, when it is expected 50,000 Sons of America, 15,000 of the ladies, with two hundred bands and one hundred and fifty floats will be in the line of march. The whole order is astir in anticipation of this event, and a large increase in membership is reported from all parts of the organization.

A "perfume grower" is the latest innovation in the horticultural world. It has been developed by Lui Gin Gong, the 65-year-old Chinese Burbank of Deland, Fla. This fruit hangs upon the tree for two or three years and when placed in a room it gives off a lasting and pleasant perfume.

Treble Hardness of Leather.

A Norwegian engineer claims that he has discovered a process by which leather can be made two or three times as hard as it is normally. Says Popular Mechanics Magazine. This is of very special interest in these days of high prices for footwear and other leather goods. While the leather can be made as hard as wood, it does not lose its elasticity, it is said, and also affords greater resistance to both heat and moisture.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Matt Savag, a former newspaper man of this county, now located in Florida, was a Curwensville visitor yesterday.

"Kathleen" coming for the Rescue Hose and Ladder boys. Pretty girls, witty lines, smiling dancers and catchy tunes, will be found in abundance in the musical comedy offering "Kathleen" which will be staged in the opera house on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, under the auspices of Rescue Hose and Ladder Company. Over one hundred young men and ladies will be assembled in the cast and chorus. During the production there will be fourteen musical numbers. A hearty response has already been received from the public judging by the number of tickets sold already. The reserved seat sale will start on Tuesday. Exchanges can be made at the Murphy drug store. Enthusiasm is running high among the members of the cast, and all participants claim that "Kathleen" is made up of the catchiest music, cleverest dances and funniest lines of any comedy that has been produced in this town for many moons. Curwensville people have seen the members of the cast in other productions and will at once realize that a treat is in store for all who see the play. Patronize the show, and thereby help the firemen.

Philip Reed, a son of M. V. Reed of this place, met with an accident the other day which landed him in the Cottage hospital at Philipsburg. He was employed as a brakeman on the Pennsy and by some unaccountable means a foot was caught under one of the car wheels, smashing the toes and forepart of the foot. Two of the toes had to be amputated.

One of the hunters returned from the mountains yesterday and in conversation with him he said camps that had three and four deer hung up before the first week of the season had elapsed last season, have not succeeded in getting one thus far this season, and the deer that have been slain are all very small, proving, as he stated, that in killing off the young males before they had hardly reached a mature age, the animals were decreasing in size and weight. The deer, both male and female, are very timid and wild this season, and when they scent a human being or hear a gun crack they will run for miles before halting for a breathing spell. In sections of the mountains where deer were found in abundance last season they are not to be found at all. It may be true also, that the lack of tracking snow might have some bearing on the small number of deer killed thus far.

Some persons in Curwensville who have more idle time on their hands than they know what to do with, circulated a report that just as soon as the Rattamar Water Company had completed improvements at the Sand Spring and some other points, the management contemplated boosting water prices up several notches on the scale. So far as our investigation goes, there is nothing to it.

Messrs. Hayward and McGinnis, two gentlemen who have been in Curwensville several weeks organizing a co-operative store to be known as Producers and Consumers' Stores Company, are about ready to establish the store and in connection a butcher shop. The stock of this concern is owned by Curwensville people and farmers of adjacent territory. The board of directors will also be chosen from the list of Curwensville stockholders. The goods to be handled will be of a staple variety and it is promised that they will be sold at a price cheaper than has ever been known in Curwensville. The gentlemen are not strangers to many of this territory, one of them having been interested in the Hyde City real estate operations of many years ago.

Friends in this town of the Condo family who now reside in Philipsburg received notification that Mrs. W. B. Condo died in the McGirk hospital at 11 o'clock a. m. Mrs. Condo was operated on less than a week ago, and at that time small hope was held out for her recovery. The funeral will be held on Monday. Interment to be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Chief Clark was notified yesterday that his sister Mrs. William Allison, who was in a Brookville hospital for treatment, had been taken to her home in Hawthorn, and that he should not be surprised to hear of her death at any time.

The funeral cortege of Mrs. W. D. Condo of Philipsburg will arrive in Curwensville at 3:30 p. m. on Monday. The body will be taken to the home of Lynn Daugherty for a short time to be viewed by her friends. Burial at Oak Grove cemetery at 4 p. m. Monday.

WOODLAND

Mrs. George Stewart, daughter Mrs. Roy Cryder and little daughter of Lock Haven visited this week at the homes of the former's brothers, Harvey and Reed Barger.

Miss Bessie Pickles of Mineral Spring is serving on the jury this week. Mrs. Lee Heath is substituting for Miss Bessie as teacher of the Lower Woodland primary.

There are quite a few cases of scarlet fever reported at Lower Woodland. We would be sorry to see this dreadful disease spread thru the town.

The Barger restaurant has changed hands. Smith and McKinzie of Curwensville are now in charge. H. O. Barger has moved into his new home. John Woolridge is occupying part of the Barger residence.

J. N. Palmers have this week moved into their new brick bungalow on Main street.

Mrs. Fred Shugarts and Mrs. Blake Shugarts of Clearfield spent Friday at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Wilsoncroft.

Latest reports from the hunting camps tell us of two deer being killed by Edward Wisor and Ashley Peters. Ed Livergood got a deer last week and Ash Welker both deer and bear.

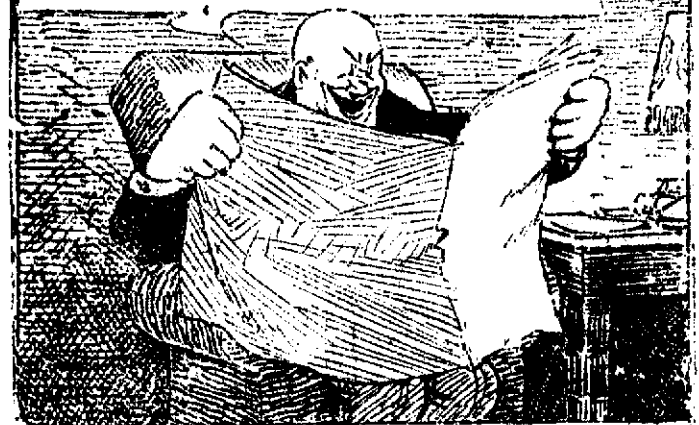

Robert Peters has returned from the mountains, also Burtice McDowell.

Hey you kids! The Post Office Department at Woodland has received from Santa Claus a letter box which has been placed on the outside of the post office building. Letters for Santa placed in this box will receive proper attention.

be better of fourteen companies which planned the development of water power electric sites along the Clarion river and distribution of that current throughout a wide range of electric territory. Recently the Public Service Commission approved construction of the first of three great dams in this river. Fred Hepburn of 4 Wall Street, New York City, president of the company, is also president of the Penn Public Service Company, owner of the Johnstown Electric Light plant.

The dam project according to Hepburn has been financed, the money is in the bank for the first lower unit, and Wall Street will provide funds for the next two water power sites as soon as money is needed. Work has been begun on preliminary surveys of the transmission line to carry current from this first dam near Nine creek nine miles below the city of Clarion, to the city of Johnstown.

The company will furnish current to Somerset, Cambria, Clearfield and Indiana counties. Officers declare the project is so great and its possibilities so unlimited there is no predicting how great a unit this will prove in the long dreamed of super power system.

The Public Service Commission has also approved the York Haven transfer. For the York Haven Water and Power company has been generating a little current with antiquated machinery. Now the Metropolitan Edison Company of Reading has agreed to acquire a major common stock. Improvement of a million dollars have been made.

The generating capacity will be more than what is more important great network of lines and the eastern part of the current will be put to more than half the current old dam was used because seven company standing had no market for its surplus. But through the Metropolitan Edison connections, not only Harrisburg, Reading and York, but Pottstown, Norristown, Allentown and Easton will have the opportunity to secure what extra current they may need and can also dispose of any surplus steam current they may have over the same system. Towns in New Jersey and within four miles of the New York State line are to benefit as well.

A similar development is under way up-state in the Williamsport section where a group of New York bankers have bought all the electric interests in Williamsport, Lock Haven and Jersey Shore in a bigger financial transaction than has ever before been known of in that section. Williamsport is to be one of the chief transmitting stations while power sites are to be developed along the West Branch.

Today there is probably no relation between these three great units, yet engineers declare it must come. Only in that way with the great interchange of so called "dump power" which otherwise would go to waste, they say can the needs of the great manufacturing state of Pennsylvania as it will develop within the next decade be met. Six months ago, three months ago, it was all visionary, today the start has been made, the final result the super-power system must follow they declare.

Cats Have Too Many Lives.

The nine lives of the cat seem to be more than a pleasant myth, for everything that has been said, they are said to be, is actually true. This is a case for very real alarm, the scientists contend. They point out that the means of numerous diseases are known to be carried in the fur of cats. The night prowler who goes from yard to yard and ash can to ash can puts in peril a whole neighborhood, more especially children.

LOCK HAVEN FEARS NEWS FROM THE HUNTING CAMPS

led to the Business Mens Association seeking further information on one of the three points that are said to be the reasons why the state may do away with the local Normal school. This one reason is the matter of teacher-training facilities for Normal school seniors in the local public schools, which was discussed at Monday night's meeting of the School Board.

Rumors About School's Future. Another reason given is the high per capita cost of conducting the comparatively small attendance. The number of students this year, while 51 per cent greater than last year, is still considerably below the number that could be provided for without any great increase in the overhead cost.

The third reason assigned is in connection with the new river line of the New York Central railroad. In this case one rumor piles on top of another to the effect that powerful interests in state politics and in school affairs are working with the railroad company to abandon the local Normal school and thereby reduce materially the damages that the railroad company is supposed to pay for running its right of way over the Normal school property. The rumors even go so far as to say that in return for abandoning the school property, the railroad will use the property on which to erect car shops.

Principal Drum Speaks

All members of the school board were present at Monday night's meeting except Dr. S. J. McGhee, who was out of the city. President W. C. Long introduced Principal Nevie Warren Drum, who went over in detail the Board's counterproposal of November 27. Mr. Drum's main objections related to the Board's proposal that teachers may not participate in teaching in the Junior High School; that one period of actual teaching during a single session is insufficient; and that the Board's proposal does not allow for adequate supervision of the regular teachers' work with the student teachers.

Explains Board's Proposal. These objections were answered by Dr. Nelson P. Benson, superintendent of schools, who stated that one period of actual teaching of 40 minutes or an hour would permit better preparation by the student teacher and would also insure that most of the teaching will be done by the regularly employed teacher. Relative to teaching in the Junior High school, Dr. Benson stated that the proposed condition in the Junior High school will not permit it at this time and he frankly stated his conviction that the State Normal school are not qualified from the standpoint of knowledge of subject matter and necessary experience to take the place of college trained experienced teachers in the Junior High School.

THE CLEARFIELD PROGRESS, CLEARFIELD, PA., SATURDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 9, 1932.

FIVE MAJOR ISSUES TO COME BEFORE NEXT LEGISLATURE WILL BRING STORM

Financial Reorganization, Labor Laws, Wet Issues, Forestry and Highways On the List

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 9.—Five major issues due to come before the next session of the state legislature will meet with strong opposition from various points and it is believed will bring about one of the stormiest sessions ever witnessed at the capital.

All five of these issues have been before the public, many of them long enough to be given definite form and shape by various organizations and interests. These five are: Financial reorganization. Labor legislation. Wet and dry issues. Forestry development. Highway construction. The combined pronounced reform program of Mr. Pinchot and the reorganization scheme outlined by Governor Sproul's committee are certain to be bones of contention.

CASKET COMPANY OFFICIALS UNDER TWO INDICTMENTS

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 9.—Charged with conspiracy and false pretense, nine men who said they represented the A. C. Casket Company have been indicted in the Blair county court. Six are also charged with fraudulent conversion.

The news printed above will be of considerable interest in Clearfield because of the fact that large blocks of that stock were sold in this city about fifteen months ago. There was quite a controversy at the time, and a number of citizens went to Altoona to make a personal investigation.

Intelligence Accused Of Burning High Schools In The State Of New Jersey

One of the high schools in the state of New Jersey was burned last night. The loss was $100,000. There was $100,000 insurance carried on the building.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is suspected that it was the work of incendiaries as the Blair Academy at Blairtown yesterday burned under similar circumstances.

Two Badly Burned When From Lighted Lantern Gasoline Fumes Ignite

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 9.—While August Purser of Alexandria was filling his automobile tank with gasoline the flames became ignited from a lighted lantern he was holding in his hand and an explosion followed which burned two passengers in his car. Purser escaped injury but one of the girls passengers in the car was severely burned.

JUDGE STONE RESIGNS

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 9.—Judge Stephen Stone of Common Pleas Court in the Fifth Judicial District announced his resignation today to take effect Monday, December 12, 1932. He gave as his reason for resigning the post the necessity of earning more money and desire to return to private practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Danghart of Jersey Shore took dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fikes on Second street last evening.

Novel Campaigner May Take Crow's Place In Senate At Harrisburg

Fayette City, Pa., Dec. 9. (U. P.)—An original campaigner, Guy W. Brown, recently elected to the state Senate from the thirty-second district, is looked upon as a successor to the late William E. Crow in the state body.

Brown entered the race in opposition to the regular Republican organization and staged one of the most unusual campaigns in the history of Fayette county.

Brown attributes his victory at the primary and in the recent election in face of strong opposition to the use of a flyer that carried him to the home of every voter in the district. No road was too rough and no hill too steep for him to tackle.

The new state Senator was a close friend of Crow and when the latter was named by Governor Sproul to the United States Senate, Brown got the "bee" which finally resulted in his entering the political arena.

He was born on a farm near Fayette City, went to Wooster College and was for a time ticket agent at Charleroi, later becoming clerk in the Fayette City Bank, of which he is now vice-president.

Sleuths Disguised As Waiters And Cooks Are Guarding Four Premiers

London, Dec. 9.—Hundreds of detectives from Scotland Yard, disguised as waiters and cooks, guarded Premier Poincare of France and Premier Mussolini of Italy at Claridge's hotel today as the conference of allied premiers opened. French secret service men were also on the job hovering around Premier Poincare while Mussolini had brought with him a Fascist bodyguard. A meeting of the heads of governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium described by the American ambassador as important was started by Premier Poincare when he invited Mussolini to a twenty minute private chat. Afterwards Bonar Law saw Poincare.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—Georges Clemenceau is now on the last lap of his journey prior to returning to the councils of Europe.

THREE GREAT SUPER POWER SYSTEMS ARE UNDER WAY IN STATE

Great Schemes Called Visionary Only A Few Years Ago Rapidly Nearing Completion.

GIANT AT CLARION

Harrisburg, Nov. 29.—This is a record-breaking era in the electrical history of the Keystone state. First steps have been taken in three separate and distinct sections of the Commonwealth for plants that will eventually become units in the huge super power electric system. For years government engineers have declared and reported such a system must be developed in Pennsylvania and other states in the Atlantic seaboard to take care of increasing demands from manufacturing plants for plenty of lowest current.

Engineers here in the Capitol city who are acquainted with the public utilities of Pennsylvania declare this fall has set a new high record for electrical development of this class. Year after year they say the government surveyed and reported that power plants in Pennsylvania must eventually become one great system with a great reserve of low-cost electric current which could be distributed to every section of the state. And year after year these same reports were regarded as visionary and far in the future. Yet with the closing of the year three great projects, one at York Haven on the Susquehanna river south of Harrisburg, one at Williamsport and along the West Branch and the third along the Clarion river have become realities.

The Clarion river project is in a sense the newest and the oldest of them all. The Clarion River Power company was formed in 1912 through

SIX KILLED IN POWDER MILL EXPLOSION NEAR PITTSSTON; TWENTY-THREE INJURED

Pittston, Pa., Dec. 9.—An explosion in the plant of the Black Diamond Powder Company at Sexton, near here, cost six lives and injured twenty-three men, according to reports reaching here. The cause of the blast is unknown and the extent of the damage cannot be learned as the only telephone line leading to the town went through the mill and all communication cut off. The dead as far as known, are Frank Garrah, Philip Rice, Sebastian Fabian, Raymond Schlow and two unidentified men. A brother of Fabian is said to be missing.

40 TYPHOID CASES IN MORRIS TOWNSHIP EPIDEMIC THIS FAR

Altogether there are forty cases of typhoid fever in Morris township, and three more suspects with symptoms indicating they may be stricken with the malady.

There have been no deaths so far, but some of the patients are very ill. It was thought this morning another would be admitted to the Cottage State hospital, where they have been caring for as many of the cases from the stricken district as they have room for, in addition to the accident victims. The hospital is a very busy place just now.

Virtually all the cases developed at Oak Grove and Cunard Slope, indicating the source of the trouble was in that locality. One of the patients lives in the village of Morris Dale, but he worked in the district where the other patients worked and lived.

Representatives of the State Department of Health are supervising the work of looking after the stricken district and in directing the campaign for the prevention of the spread of the malady.

"What Is Wrong With The Church?" Topic Of Able Speaker Thursday

It is acknowledged by both ministers and lay members of our churches that there is something fundamentally wrong with the churches today. They don't appeal. They don't sway the people as they should and used to do. Why is it? We don't know. But we have a man coming here next Thursday evening that we believe can tell you something that will enlighten and interest you. Dr. A. F. McGarrah, of New York, is one of the foremost men in the Presbyterian church, a man the equal of many of the high priced Chautauqua lecturers in his ability to interest and please with a message that is well worth dollars to hear but given absolutely free of cost with refreshments thrown in. No admission charge, no collection and the assured promise of a few hours entertainment. Come and hear him. The officers of the Presbyterian church of Clearfield are putting on a free lecture and social hour at the church on Thursday evening, Dec. 14th, 1932 at 7:30 o'clock.

LOCK HAVEN TOWN NORMAL SCHOOL BE LOST TO TOWN

Small Attendance at S. N. S. and Lock Co-operation, Local Cause of Difficulty

MEETINGS HELD

Lock Haven is considerably surprised over the possibility of losing the State Normal School here. The following article from the Lock Haven Express states reasons advanced for the possible removal and other interesting facts to the controversy.

The regular December meeting of the Board of Education was held at the High School last night. An earnest discussion of the Normal school teacher-training was present and showed an earnest desire to have an agreement at between the local Board of Education and the State Normal authorities.

The possibility of the removal of the State Normal school from Lock Haven was introduced in the discussion by Principal Owen, and was supported by E. F. McGarrah, president of the Business Men's Association and by H. W. Shaffer. Reference to this effect have been in circulation here for some time past and

The general store of the Pennsylvania Mercantile Company at Run was broken into Thursday by an unknown person and a number of articles stolen, enough to make considerable of a load, the store management stated this morning.

The robber, or robbers, who may have been more than one, entered through a window in front part of the building and parted by way of the back door. The stealing was done by one close by, a car must have been used to haul away the loot. The articles taken were too bulky for one or two persons to carry a considerable distance. The raining the night obliterated any tracks made by a car if any were made. The indications are the person a man with a family. His motherly selection for various members of the family. He selected No. 9 and a dozen flannel shirts also. Sweaters and knitted coats were taken. Even the baby of four or five years was not neglected. For wife or grown daughters silk stockings were selected. Old Santa himself could not have done better making the selection. Blankets were also taken, as well as dyed wool work shirts, children's children's underwear, knives, flashlights, batteries, watches and children's stockings.

Oregon To Compel All Children To Attend State Public Schools

NEW LAW CERTAIN TO HAVE COURT TEST

By FRANK CLARVOE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chapter I

Portland, Ore., Dec. 8 (United Press).—At the general election November 7, the voters of Oregon approved by 14,000 majority the Compulsory education. It specifies that parents, guardians and all those having charge of children between the ages of eight and sixteen years to send such children to the PUBLIC GRADED SCHOOLS OF THE STATE.

The bill was proposed by legislative petition, and amends section 5259 of the Oregon law relating to compulsory education. It specifies that every child "under the age of sixteen years and of the age of eight years or over at the commencement of a term of public school of the district in which said child resides" shall attend public school and that any parent, guardian, or person having the control, charge or custody of a child who fails to so educate a child be guilty of misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $5 nor more than $100, or be sentenced to imprisonment in the county jail not less than two nor more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Each day's failure to comply with the law is to be considered a separate offense. No parent or other child custodian can avoid the law by sending the child out of the state to a private or public school in another state for such is a violation of the law. The only way to avoid the law is for the family to transfer its place of residence to another state for the entire year or during the school year. Even this latter construction may be open to question when the law becomes effective on and after September 1, 1933.

There are exceptions under the law Children physically unable to attend school may be educated in other ways. Children regardless of age, who have completed the eighth grade to the satisfaction of the state board of education, are excused. Children who live at inconvenient or unsafe distances from the nearest school, unless transportation is provided by the school district, do not come under the law, and those children taught by parent or private tutor during the school year, such courses of study as the state requires and whose progress is known and approved by the school authorities, are held to comply with the law without attendance at public school. The law does not apply to high schools.

To Test The Law
Since the law will not become effective until after four years, not a great deal is being said or done with regard to actually testing its constitutionality. That such test will be made is certain. There is a small unorganized movement now on foot looking toward that expedition.

Oregon long ago passed a compulsory educational measure which requires all children to be educated. This law was tested in the courts and held valid. Many states have the general compulsory education law but Oregon now is the only one to have a law requiring that such necessary education be obtained in the public schools or under the supervision of the state or district boards of education.

The fight on the law may go high in the courts of the nation, and whether the amendment will stand test or not remains to be seen. There is a possibility, of course, that should a serious fight be aroused by the bill, the injunction may be sought as a weapon to prevent its becoming legally effective pending the outcome of litigation. But this is only a possibility and at best is but speculation.

The question has been asked: "How will the law be put into effect?" The answer to that is: "Like any other law that becomes a law. It goes in to effect and that's all there is to it. Legal machinery has a way of moving and the legislative, executive, judiciary and enforcement parts of the government have a way of working which makes any law as effective as human means can make it while combatting human opposition."

An Initiated Measure.
As this bill was an initiative petition, born of the people, passed by them, and exhibited to them as a duly recorded statute, it seems likely that the people who passed it will see that it is enforced, unless there is a change of mind in the next four years and the referendum is invoked to undo what has been done.

The fact that the bill is so worded that it will not go into effect until four years hence is but an indication that two things are expected. One is a fight against the bill in the courts, the other is that time is needed for private and church educational institutions to adjust themselves to the new condition of things. This change will be gradual, as will the gathering by the law's opponents of strength to war against the law in legal fields. Both these conditions having been provided for their development should be gradual and painless, and it seems reasonable to suppose that three or four years following the passage of the law which evoked such bitter campaigning, both proponents and opponents should be better able to view the matter in its broader aspects. (End Chapter I.)

Nerve-Unbroken When Sentenced to Death

With a calm and almost jaunty air, these six former leaders in the Greek government listened to the sentence which sent five to death and one to penal servitude for life. Left to right, they are: Balamas, former minister of foreign affairs; General Stratigos, minister of communications; M. Goumaris, former premier; Stratigos, minister of the interior; Theotokis, former minister of war and Protopapadakis, former premier. General Stratigos escaped death and received life imprisonment.

The Great Test.
Self-control is an easy matter when we are alone, says New Success Magazine. But the moment our lives are thrown in with others, then comes the struggle. To train in our equanimity, to restrain the sharp retort, the impatient exclamation, to get along smoothly with disagreeable people, without friction or jar—this is the great life test. This is what builds character, what tests manhood or womanhood, what makes the ideal employee.

Some of you men seem to think that woman is not qualified to take her place at the barber chair. Wash Kidneys If They Hurt

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back pains you or Bladder bothers.

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In the pocket of an old ragged coat belonging to one of the insane patients of the Chicago poor house there was found after the patient's death, a will.

The man had been a lawyer, and the will was written in a firm, clear hand on a few scraps of paper.

So unusual was it that it was sent to a lawyer; and he read it before the Chicago Bar Association, and a resolution was passed ordering it probated. And now it is in the records of Cook county, Illinois.

The will reads as follows:

I, Charles Lounsberry, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order, as justly as may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interest which I know in law and recognized in sheep bound volumes as my property, being considerable and of no account, I make no disposition of in this, my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

Item. I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children all good words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously, as the needs of their children shall require.

Item. I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of childhood, all and every flower of the fields and blossoms of the woods with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float over the giant trees.

And I leave to the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

Item. I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow clad hills where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterfies thereon; the woods with their appurtenances; the squirrels and the birds and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without let or hindrance or without any incumbrance or care.

Item. To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of music, and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the last-ness and beauty of their love.

Item. To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sport of rivalry and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave to them the power to make lasting friendship and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

Item. And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave memory, and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

Item. To our loved ones with snowy crown I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep.

Tomorrow all over this land there will be gatherings of men in churches, chapels and Sunday School rooms. Likewise there will be gatherings of voting women.

Much depends, in our opinion, on just what these gatherings do at those meetings tomorrow. Are they simply going to argue about some obscure point of scripture for amusement and the sake of argument, or listen to an age-old story from the teacher with a sort of tolerable expression?

Would it not be timely to at least have some comment on the remarks of our President about prohibition and prohibition enforcement? Seems to us it would be fine to adopt resolutions of commendation and send them to Washington or, better yet, send a wire.

The President should know that the country is back of him to the limit. A wonderful opportunity is now presented

An interesting sidelight into the views of Mr. Harding on what constitutes "normalcy" is to be had in close consideration of his remarks anent the recent coal and rail strikes. No one will deny the truth of his statement that the two strikes "had no excuse for their beginning, and less justification for their delayed settlement."

Contrary to the much desired statement that labor was responsible for the hold-up of industry and business, wanted by certain business interests and certain radical elements in labor unions, the President simply gave the views of the average citizen when he placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of both in these words, "labor was insistent on holding to the war heights (of wages) and heedless forces of reaction sought the pre-war levels."

Both wanted to be "all hog or none."

If a newspaper did, or even attempted to do, a small percentage of the things that people expect it to do, it would have to be piloted by an all wise staff.

Plainly stated, the business of the newspaper is to gather, package and label the news of the day.

Only a few short years ago that was not the business of the newspaper. Then they were political organs and mouthpieces, some honestly and conscientiously so, others merely selling machines wound up by politicians and gainseekers.

Today the successful newspaper is the one printing the most interesting news of the day in the most interesting and commanding fashion.

Probably the greatest expense and annoyance the small daily newspaper has today is the almost daily request made upon it for support of local drives, campaigns and movements of every description. The preparation of this material and the setting of it in type is costly, yet no charge can be made for this work, because no reputable modern newspaper will admit anything to the news columns for a cash consideration, even though this cash consideration might be only to recompense the newspaper for the actual labor performed.

It has always been a principle with The Progress that "advertising" must be recognized as such by the reader and "news" must be free from distrust. Propaganda in the interest of local or national campaigns is easily recognizable by the reader and propaganda of any other nature is admitted only when it clearly sets forth some interesting phase of a controversy or new problem.

Getting back to the original statement that a newspaper is known by the news it gathers we can easily see that the space taken up and the time used on propaganda and publicity for various movements could be used to advantage by the newspaper. Oftentimes the news value of a paper is destroyed by these encroachments on front page space.

We are always glad to lend a hand and assist in every one of these drives but must object to being "driven." Please give us time to print a newspaper once a day.

LESSON FOR DECEMBER 10
THE STORY OF THE GOOD SAMARITAN

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Lev. 19:18

PRIMARY TOPIC—Showing Kindness to a Stranger

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of the Good Samaritan

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Being a Good Neighbor

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Who is My Neighbor?

1. How to Inherit Eternal Life (vv. 25-29).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29).

"Lawyer" here means one versed in religious law—the Scriptures. This does not mean lawyer in our modern sense of that term. It would more nearly correspond to a theological professor. The lawyer's object was to trap Jesus—to induce Him to take such a stand as would weaken His influence as a teacher. He expected Jesus to set forth some new ceremonies which would conflict with or disprove the law.

2. Jesus' Question (v. 29). Though Jesus knew the motive of the lawyer He did not evade his question. He sent him to the law—the field which was familiar to him. He thus was robbed of his own weapon.

3. The Lawyer's Reply (v. 27). He made an intelligent answer declaring that the entire content of the law was embraced in love to God and man. This expresses the whole of human duty.

4. Jesus' Reply (v. 28). This straightforward answer went to the heart of the lawyer. Perfect love to God and man is truly the way of life. No man has yet had or can have such love. His sinful condition precludes its possibility. Man's failure to measure up to this requirement is his condemnation. The lawyer keenly felt this thrust. He was defeated on his own grounds and convicted of guilt.

11. Who is My Neighbor (vv. 30-37).

1. The Lawyer's Question (v. 29). This question reveals the insincerity of the lawyer. Christ's answer had reached his conscience and now he seeks to escape the difficulty by asking a captious question. Lawyer-like he sought to get off by raising a question as to the meaning of words.

2. Jesus' Answer (vv. 30-37). Christ's reply more than answered the lawyer's question. In the parable of the Good Samaritan He makes clear who is a neighbor and also what it means to be a neighbor or what loving a neighbor means. Christ's answer had a double meaning. He not only made clear who is my neighbor, but made it clear that the lawyer was not playing the neighbor. He thus was convicted of not having been a neighbor.

(1) Who is my neighbor? This doctrine and wounded man left on the highway by the robbers is the man who needs a neighbor. My neighbor, therefore, is the one who needs my help, whether he lives next door or on the outside of the world. Those who have the Spirit of Christ can see their neighbors on every hand.

(2) What being a neighbor means. Our supreme concern should not be "Who is my neighbor?" but "Whose neighbor am I?" To be a neighbor is (a) to see those to whom we need help (v. 33). Love is keen to discern need. We should be on the lookout for those in need of our help.

(b) Have compassion on the needy (v. 33). Christ's compassion was aroused as He came into contact with those who were suffering and in need. All those who have His nature will be likewise moved. (c) Give to those in need (v. 34). Many are willing to give money to help the poor and needy, but are unwilling to personally minister to them. Many times the personal touch is more important than the material aid. We should give ourselves as well as our money. (d) Bind up wounds (v. 34). (e) Set the helpless ones on our beasts while we walk (v. 34). This is proof that love is genuine. Christians will deny themselves in order to have something to give to those who have need. This kind of sympathy is greatly needed today. (f) Bring to the inn and take care of the unfortunate (v. 34). Genuine love does not leave its service incomplete. Much Christian service is spasmodic, helps and then leaves a man to take care of himself. (g) Give money (v. 35). It costs a good deal to be a neighbor. Love is the most expensive thing in the world. It cost God His only Son. It cost Christ His life. May we go and do likewise!

The old Athenian oath a good one to stir us today:

"We will never bring disgrace on our city by an act of dishonesty or cowardice."

We will fight for the ideals of this, our city, both alone and with many. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the public's sense of civic duty.

Thus: In these ways we will transmit this city not only as it was transmitted to us but greater, better and more beautiful."

Well might we of today thus pledge ourselves.

SALVATION ARMY REVIVAL SERVICES CONTINUE

A good attendance was present last night, to hear the world-wide evangelist at the Salvation Army hall. Colonel Hammond gave a very powerful talk on "Boundless Salvation," showing the great opportunities there are for the christian who will enter into the whole-hearted experience, and work for God.

Tonight the Colonel will give a very special talk on "Hope For the Wanderer." This will show the great love that God has for those that have turned aside from His service, and also the wonderful opportunities that are placed before backsliders if they will but return.

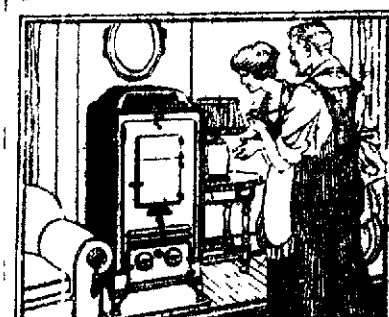

Sunday morning the Colonel will speak on "The Vision of Isaiah." This will be a Holiness topic and this service will be at 11 o'clock a. m.

Sunday night at 8 p. m. the topic will be "Unfathomable Love," showing the great love of God to mankind. Keep the above services in mind and do not fail to take the opportunity of coming to hear the Colonel while he is in Clearfield.

"My Trip Around the World." This very important lecture will be given by the Colonel on Tuesday night at 8 p. m. in the High School auditorium. This lecture will be education. The Colonel has been in many lands and it will be well worth coming to listen to this lecture which is full of history, geography, and is also full of humor, as the Colonel deals with many of the native customs in different lands.

Put Hard Things First.

The person who puts the disagreeable duty first in order is the one who is pretty sure to succeed. The impulse which leads us to postpone anything hard and unpleasant as long as we can is something which will prove our undoing, unless we are on our guard.

Patriotic Order Sons of America 75 Years Old, Sunday, Dec. 10th.

Camps All Over the State Will Attend Church
Services Sunday and Celebrate In
Their Camp Rooms

By CHARLES BRUMM HELMS

The Patriotic Order Sons of America is seventy-five years old, as the order was organized December 10, 1847 on Tenth street below Ridge avenue, Philadelphia by Dr. Reynold Coates of Philadelphia, a member of the "United Sons of America," who was elected to carry the idea of the Order into effect, and consummate the formation of the Auxiliary branch. Dr. Coates immediately set to work to lay the foundation for what was afterward named the "Junior Order Sons of America." His first work was to formulate a ritual for the use of the Order, draft a code of laws for its government and prepare a declaration of principles. This having been accomplished, he issued a call for a meeting, to be held December 10, 1847, for the formation of the first Camp of the new Order. The minutes show that twenty-three men between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one years attended this meeting, all of whom signed the roll, and thus was constituted the first Camp of the "Junior Sons of America." At this same meeting the rules, regulations, etc., formulated by Dr. Coates, were adopted.

Colonel E. Z. C. Judson, a literary genius of national reputation, writing under the nom-de-plume of "Ned Montline," was among the zealous co-workers with Dr. Coates in this work, both Dr. Coates as well as Colonel Judson being beyond the age limit to permit them to join the Auxiliary, could therefore not become members of the same, but later, when the name of the Order was changed to the "Patriotic Order Sons of America," both immediately became members. Later Colonel Judson wrote the three degree rituals of the Order, known as the red, white and blue degrees. Dr. Coates died in Camden, New Jersey, April 27, 1886, at the advanced age of 84 years, having given the best service of his long life to patriotic work. Colonel Judson died at Stamford, New York, in his beautiful home called "Eagle's Nest," at the age of 68 years.

Immediately after the lighting of the first Campfire of the Order, December 10, 1847, plans were formulated to extend the Order into other sections of Pennsylvania, as well as in other states. On June 2, 1848 Camp No. 2 was instituted at Pittsburgh, Pa., and from this time forward the Order had a steady growth until, at the breaking out of the Civil War, it was firmly established in twenty states and territories.

A convention of the subordinate camps in Pennsylvania was held at Pottsville, August, 1860, at which sixty-seven camps were represented. Considerable business of great importance to the order was transacted at this meeting. When the convention adjourned it was to meet at Norristown, Pa., in August, 1861. However, before that time arrived the electric wires flashed the startling news across the country that on April 12, 1861, Fort Sumter had been fired upon.

President Lincoln immediately issued a call for 75,000 volunteers to wipe out the insult to the flag. It is a matter of undisputed history that the first five companies of volunteers to respond to the call were five companies from Pennsylvania; two from Pottsville, one from Reading, one from Lewistown.

History records it, and the records confirm it, that these five companies were in the main comprised of members of the "Junior Order Patriotic Sons of America."

Among the many accomplishments of the Order there is none that stands out more prominently than the part

it took in the preservation of Washington's headquarters at Valley Forge.

Among other achievements of the order was the presentation and adoption of the Flag Bill at Harrisburg making it a crime to mar or destroy the American flag, the placing of the flag on the public schools of the state the adoption of the Penn Institution Bill, which has saved the commonwealth close to a million dollars annually, the work for immigration restriction at Washington, where the order has been represented by James H. Patten, Esq., for years and years and its everlasting four square stand for the public schools. During the late war, the order brought its boys to Scranton a few days after war was declared and 2,900 of the flow of the Order were accepted for enlistment, altogether 27,000 of the Sons from Pennsylvania were in the World War and six hundred made the supreme sacrifice.

The National President Gabriel H. Moyer has requested every camp in the Order in the United States to attend divine services December 10th and to also celebrate this great event in the progress of the order in proper style in the camp room. This will be done by the fifteen hundred lodges or camps (as they are called) representing two hundred and fifty thousand members in the United States.

The actual general celebration of the Diamond Jubilee will be held in the City of Philadelphia from August 26th to September 1st, 1923, when the National Camp, the Pennsylvania State Camp, the Commandery General of the P. O. S. of A. will meet during the week, as well as the Pennsylvania State Camp of the Patriotic Order of Americans (the ladies branch of the order) and the Rough Riders, the social degree. The New Jersey State Camp of the P. O. S. of A. will meet in Camden at the same time.

Saturday, September 1, is reserved for the largest street pageant ever staged in the order's history in Philadelphia, when it is expected 50,000 Sons of America, 15,000 of the ladies, with two hundred bands and one hundred and fifty floats will be in the line of march. The whole order is astir in anticipation of this event, and a large increase in membership is reported from all parts of the organization.

C. LARUE MUNSON, OF WILLIAMSPORT, DIES

Williamsport, Pa., Dec. 8.—C. Larue Munson, a prominent resident of this city, died early this morning in the Rockefeller hospital, at Peking, China, of broncho-pneumonia, according to a cablegram to his son, Lieutenant Colonel Edgar Munson. Mr. Munson was with a party of tourists in a trip around the world when he was taken ill.

Mr. Munson, who was 68 years of age, was a lawyer, banker and prominent business man here for many years, being affiliated with a large number of interests. Mr. Munson's body will be brought back to this city.

A "perfume grapefruit" is the latest innovation in the horticultural world. It has been developed by Lui Gin Gong, the 65-year-old Chinese Burbank of Deland, Fla. This fruit hangs upon the tree for two or three years and when placed in a room it gives off a lasting and pleasant perfume.

Treble Hardness of Leather.

A Norwegian engineer claims that he has discovered a process by which leather can be made two or three times as hard as it is normally. Says Popular Mechanics Magazine. This is of very special interest in these days of high prices for footwear and other leather goods. While the leather can be made as hard as wood, it does not lose its elasticity, it is said, and also affords greater resistance to both heat and moisture.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

Matt Savag, a former newspaper man of this county, now located in Florida, was a Curwensville visitor yesterday.

"Kathleen" coming for the Rescue Hose and Ladder boys. Pretty girls, witty lines, smiling dancers and catchy tunes, will be found in abundance in the musical comedy offering "Kathleen" which will be staged in the opera house on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, under the auspices of Rescue Hose and Ladder Company. Over one hundred young men and ladies will be assembled in the cast and chorus. During the production there will be fourteen musical numbers. A hearty response has already been received from the public judging by the number of tickets sold already. The reserved seat sale will start on Tuesday. Exchanges can be made at the Murphy drug store. Enthusiasm is running high among the members of the cast, and all participants claim that "Kathleen" is made up of the catchiest music, cleverest dances and funniest lines of any comedy that has been produced in this town for many moons. Curwensville people have seen the members of the cast in other productions and will at once realize that a treat is in store for all who see the play. Patronize the show, and thereby help the firemen.

Philip Reed, a son of M. V. Reed of this place, met with an accident the other day which landed him in the Cottage hospital at Philipsburg. He was employed as a brakeman on the Pennsy and by some unaccountable means a foot was caught under one of the car wheels, smashing the toes and forepart of the foot. Two of the toes had to be amputated.

One of the hunters returned from the mountains yesterday and in conversation with him he said camps that had three and four deer hung up before the first week of the season had elapsed last season, have not succeeded in getting one thus far this season, and the deer that have been slain are all very small, proving, as he stated, that in killing off the young males before they had hardly reached a mature age, the animals were decreasing in size and weight. The deer, both male and female, are very timid and wild this season, and when they scent a human being or hear a gun crack they will run for miles before halting for a breathing spell. In sections of the mountains where deer were found in abundance last season they are not to be found at all. It may be true also, that the lack of tracking snow might have some bearing on the small number of deer killed thus far.

Some persons in Curwensville who have more idle time on their hands than they know what to do with, circulated a report that just as soon as the Rattamar Water Company had completed improvements at the Sand Spring and some other points, the management contemplated boosting water prices up several notches on the scale. So far as our investigation goes, there is nothing to it.

Messrs. Hayward and McGinnis, two gentlemen who have been in Curwensville several weeks organizing a co-operative store to be known as Producers and Consumers' Stores Company, are about ready to establish the store and in connection a butcher shop. The stock of this concern is owned by Curwensville people and farmers of adjacent territory. The board of directors will also be chosen from the list of Curwensville stockholders. The goods to be handled will be of a staple variety and it is promised that they will be sold at a price cheaper than has ever been known in Curwensville. The gentlemen are not strangers to many of this territory, one of them having been interested in the Hyde City real estate operations of many years ago.

Friends in this town of the Condo family who now reside in Philipsburg received notification that Mrs. W. B. Condo died in the McGirk hospital at 11 o'clock a. m. Mrs. Condo was operated on less than a week ago, and at that time small hope was held out for her recovery. The funeral will be held on Monday. Interment to be made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Chief Clark was notified yesterday that his sister Mrs. William Allison, who was in a Brookville hospital for treatment, had been taken to her home in Hawthorn, and that he should not be surprised to hear of her death at any time.

The funeral cortege of Mrs. W. D. Condo of Philipsburg will arrive in Curwensville at 3:30 p. m. on Monday. The body will be taken to the home of Lynn Daugherty for a short time to be viewed by her friends. Burial at Oak Grove cemetery at 4 p. m. Monday.

WOODLAND

Mrs. George Stewart, daughter Mrs. Roy Cryder and little daughter of Lock Haven visited this week at the homes of the former's brothers, Harvey and Reed Barger.

Miss Bessie Pickles of Mineral Spring is serving on the jury this week. Mrs. Lee Heath is substituting for Miss Bessie as teacher of the Lower Woodland primary.

There are quite a few cases of scarlet fever reported at Lower Woodland. We would be sorry to see this dreadful disease spread thru the town.

The Barger restaurant has changed hands. Smith and McKinzie of Curwensville are now in charge. H. O. Barger has moved into his new home. John Woolridge is occupying part of the Barger residence.

J. N. Palmers have this week moved into their new brick bungalow on Main street.

Mrs. Fred Shugarts and Mrs. Blake Shugarts of Clearfield spent Friday at the home of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Wilsoncroft.

Latest reports from the hunting camps tell us of two deer being killed by Edward Wisor and Ashley Peters. Ed Livergood got a deer last week and Ash Welker both deer and bear.

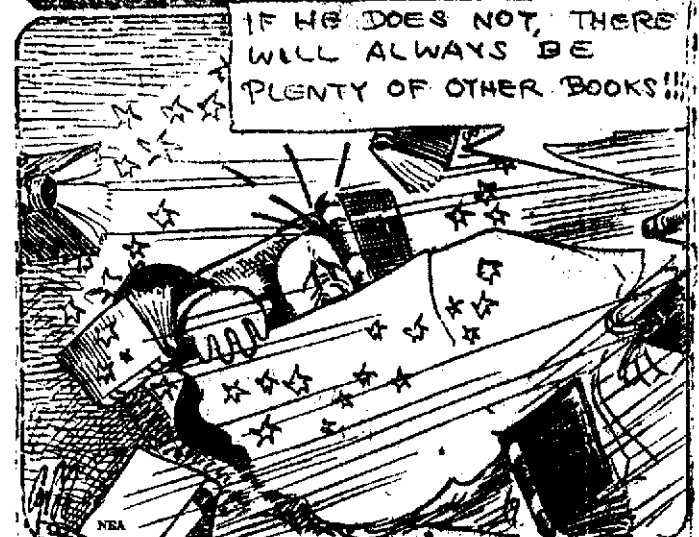

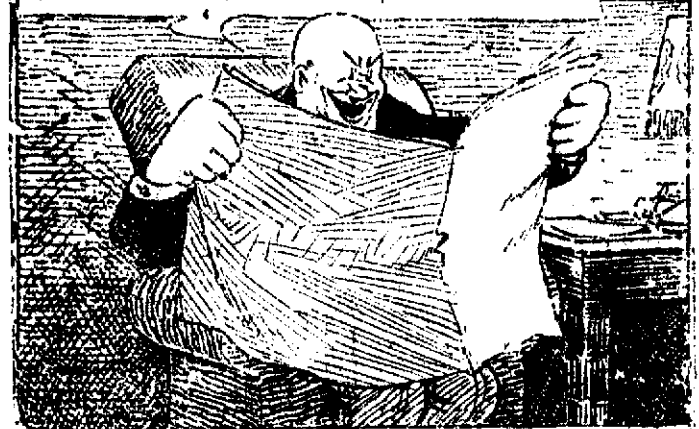

Robert Peters has returned from the mountains, also Burtice McDowell.

Hey you kids! The Post Office Department at Woodland has received from Santa Claus a letter box which has been placed on the outside of the post office building. Letters for Santa placed in this box will receive proper attention.

Enormous Structure. The weight of the great pyramid in Egypt has been estimated at 6,000,000 tons.

be better of fourteen companies which planned the development of water power electric sites along the Clarion river and distribution of that current throughout a wide range of electric territory. Recently the Public Service Commission approved construction of the first of three great dams in this river. Fred Hepburn of 4 Wall Street, New York City, president of the company, is also president of the Penn Public Service Company, owner of the Johnstown Electric Light plant.

The dam project according to Hepburn has been financed, the money is in the bank for the first lower unit, and Wall Street will provide funds for the next two water power sites as soon as money is needed. Work has been begun on preliminary surveys of the transmission line to carry current from this first dam near Nine creek nine miles below the city of Clarion, to the city of Johnstown.

The company will furnish current to Somerset, Cambria, Clearfield and Indiana counties. Officers declare the project is so great and its possibilities so unlimited there is no predicting how great a unit this will prove in the long dreamed of super power system.

The Public Service Commission has also approved the York Haven transfer. For the York Haven Water and Power company has been generating a little current with antiquated machinery. Now the Metropolitan Edison Company of Reading has agreed to acquire a major common stock. Improvement of a million dollars have been made.

The generating capacity will be more than what is more important great network of lines and the eastern part of the current will be put to more than half the current old dam was used because seven company standing had no market for its surplus. But through the Metropolitan Edison connections, not only Harrisburg, Reading and York, but Pottstown, Norristown, Allentown and Easton will have the opportunity to secure what extra current they may need and can also dispose of any surplus steam current they may have over the same system. Towns in New Jersey and within four miles of the New York State line are to benefit as well.

A similar development is under way up-state in the Williamsport section where a group of New York bankers have bought all the electric interests in Williamsport, Lock Haven and Jersey Shore in a bigger financial transaction than has ever before been known of in that section. Williamsport is to be one of the chief transmitting stations while power sites are to be developed along the West Branch.

Today there is probably no relation between these three great units, yet engineers declare it must come. Only in that way with the great interchange of so called "dump power" which otherwise would go to waste, they say can the needs of the great manufacturing state of Pennsylvania as it will develop within the next decade be met. Six months ago, three months ago, it was all visionary, today the start has been made, the final result the super-power system must follow they declare.

Cats Have Too Many Lives.

The nine lives of the cat seem to be more than a pleasant myth, for everything that has been done, they are said to be steadily increasing. This is a cause for very real alarm, the scientists contend. They point out that the means of numerous diseases are known to be carried in the fur of cats. The night prowler who goes from yard to yard and ash can to ash can puts in peril a whole neighborhood, more especially children.

LOCK HAVEN FEARS

led to the Business Mens Association seeking further information on one of the three points that are said to be the reasons why the state may do away with the local Normal school. This one reason is the matter of teacher-training facilities for Normal school seniors in the local public schools, which was discussed at Monday night's meeting of the School Board.

Rumors About School's Future. Another reason given is the high per capita cost of conducting the comparatively small attendance. The number of students this year, while 51 per cent greater than last year, is still considerably below the number that could be provided for without any great increase in the overhead cost.

The third reason assigned is in connection with the new river line of the New York Central railroad. In this case one rumor piles on top of another to the effect that powerful interests in state politics and in school affairs are working with the railroad company to abandon the local Normal school and thereby reduce materially the damages that the railroad company is supposed to pay for running its right of way over the Normal school property. The rumors even go so far as to say that in return for abandoning the school property, the railroad will use the property on which to erect car shops.

Principal Drum Speaks. All members of the school board were present at Monday night's meeting except Dr. S. J. McGhee, who was out of the city. President W. C. Long introduced Principal Nevie Warren Drum, who went over in detail the Board's counterproposal of November 27. Mr. Drum's main objections related to the Board's proposal that teachers may not participate in teaching in the Junior High School; that one period of actual teaching during a single session is insufficient; and that the Board's proposal does not allow for adequate supervision of the regular teachers' work with the student teachers.

Explains Board's Proposal. These objections were answered by Dr. Nelson P. Benson, superintendent of schools, who stated that one period of actual teaching of 40 minutes or an hour would permit better preparation by the student teacher and would also insure that most of the teaching will be done by the regularly employed teacher. Relative to teaching in the Junior High school, Dr. Benson stated that the proposed condition in the Junior High school will not permit it at this time and he frankly stated his conviction that the State Normal school are not qualified from the standpoint of knowledge of subject matter and necessary experience to take the place of college trained experienced teachers in the Junior High School.

NEWS FROM THE HUNTING CAMPS

Wolf Ridge camp is reported to have five bucks so far. Bud Carns and Howard Murray are two of the lucky boys.

Pitch Pine is said to have begged the limit. This is the first to report the limit although the rains have kept the hunters pretty close to their camps and there may be others.

C. E. Roseberry broke a twenty year record by getting a fine buck the opening morning at their new camp on Laurel Run.

John Meins of Bradford township took his son Kenneth and his nephew out to the mountains when he packed up this season to show the kid how to play a deer. John is back. So are the boys. His son Kenneth has a dandy eight-point buck and his nephew, Ezra Hubler, has one to match it. John, as dilly talkative, hasn't much to say.

Deer are not so plentiful in the Gifford run territory as heretofore, according to reports coming in from those camps. None of them have the limit. Here are some of the scores reported today: Billotte's 2, Deles's 4, Kephart's 4, Mauks Spring 2, Morrisdale 5, State Camp 2, Leireys 2, Cherrytree 1.

The Cherrytree Blue Ridge, between Gifford and the North Branch, have a mascot to take home with them if they can find anybody who will carry the "animal." Soon after they set up camp, it became evident that some kind of animal was stealing their meat, and tins were taken to sit up and watch for the intruder. Finally one of the members secured himself in the meat box, hung old fashioned over his head, with the lid partly propped open, and his ingenuity was soon rewarded. The lid was left in a dropping position so that when the animal stuck his head and one paw into the aperture, it dropped. The man inside the box pulled down on the cross pieces of the lid, all the time yelling for dear life, but succeeded in holding the midnight raider which proved to be a wild cat of no mean proportions. Means were devised to capture him alive and he was chained outside the camp to the howlers away. Needless to say, visitors give the cat a wide berth.

Buttermilk Laying Mash

Balanced egg-making ration just right in animal protein (needed for eggs) and low in fibre (indigestible waste matter). No mill sweepings, shell, alfalfa, ground hay or trashy filler. All nutritious feed—clean and sweet.

Conkey's contains wholesome meat scraps, granulated bone, grains ground to proper fineness, and fresh concentrated buttermilk. We use Semi-Solid Buttermilk only. Mixed with exacting care and scientific accuracy, it gets remarkable results in a perfectly natural way, without ruinous artificial stimulation. It is Nature's balanced egg-maker.
